Lewandowski set to compete with U.S. National Team this Thursday and Sunday
Women's Soccer

Posted: 5/31/2016 2:46:00 PM

Complete USA Release/Roster

BETHLEHEM, Pa. - Former Lehigh women's soccer standout Gina Lewandowski '07 was named to a 25-player training camp roster for the U.S. National Team earlier this month, ahead of two matches against Japan set for this Thursday (June 2) and Sunday (June 5). The USA came together in Denver on May 27 and will play Japan in Commerce City, Colo. Thursday (9 p.m. ET on Fox Sports 1) and in Cleveland, Ohio Sunday (12:30 P.M. ET on ESPN2).

Eighteen players will suit up in each match. This marks the second time in nine months Lewandowski has been invited to join the U.S. National Team. In October, Lewandowski joined the World Cup winning U.S. National Team for friendlies vs. Brazil as part of its victory tour.

A member of the Patriot League 25th Anniversary Team, Lewandowski was Lehigh's only-ever four-time first team All-Patriot League honoree. She was named the Patriot League Rookie of the Year in 2003, tallying 26 points behind 12 goals (third in program history) and two assists, and followed with the league's Offensive Player of the Year honor in both 2004 and 2005. As a sophomore, Lewandowski scored a single-season school record 15 goals, while she tallied 16 points (six goals, four assists) as a junior. Lewandowski stands second in Lehigh history in career goals (36) and points (80), while she is first in game-winning goals for a career (15) and season (6).

Exclusive Interview with Bayern Munich's Gina Lewandowski, the American Champion in Germany

February 2, 2018 Gerry Wittmann 1

Americans have been earning a paycheck playing fussball in Germany for decades now, dozens and dozens of them, some briefly in the lower divisions and reserve sides, others taking a more prominent role in Germany's top divisions. American fans are excited to follow the exploits of youngsters such as Christian Pulisic at Borussia Dortmund, Weston McKennie at Schalke and the 17 year-old Josh Sargent training with the Werder Bremen senior squad. And veterans in Germany such as Bobby Wood, John Brooks, Fabian Johnson and Timmy Chandler, among others, also attract the attention of many Americans week in and week out.

But there is only one American footballer in Germany who has earned multiple trophies, including three Bundesliga titles, two Pokal championships and winning the Champions League — and HER name is Gina Lewandowski, who has been playing professionally in Germany since 2007, first for 1.FFC Frankfurt and the last five seasons for the Bayern Munich Frauen. Gina, a native of Coopersburg, Pennsylvania (an hour north of Philadelphia), took time a few weeks ago during Winterpause training to speak with us about her career in Germany, being a member of the Bayern Munich family, and so much more as she's taken a road less travelled by most of her American women counterparts to fashion a highly successful career.

Bundesliga Fanatic: When did you begin playing soccer, and how did you end up playing in Germany?

Gina Lewandowski: I began playing when I was about six years old. I played college ball at Lehigh University (15 minutes away from home in Bethlehem, PA), but when I graduated in 2007 there was no women's professional league in the United States. My dream was always to be a professional footballer. I could have played in the U.S. for the Charlotte Eagles, but they weren't a professional side, or I could contact my relatives in Hanau, near Frankfurt..... and they found people who knew more about the professional game in Germany and got me in touch with agents, which got me to a couple of tryouts. I left right after graduation, and after a month landed a contract with 1.FFC Frankfurt.

BF: Were you nervous trying out with professional clubs, coming directly from a college program and going to a country where you did not know the language?

Gina: Yes, of course, I was nervous...and excited, too. I tried not to have expectations. Lehigh had a strong program, but not on the level of the most elite women's college programs. My first tryout was with a third division club, which helped me feel more confident and eased my transition into the German game.. The girls in Germany helped me, though I wasn't at top fitness since I'd had several injuries during my senior season. I tried out for Frankfurt, as I wanted to stay in proximity to my relatives, and a tryout for a few days turned into a week, and then another week, and finally I signed a contract. It was beneficial staying with my relatives, as I could adapt to the culture and language — they spoke English, too, and were very helpful. I took a private course in German with one of my friends.

BF: Didn't you win the Bundesliga Frauen title your first year in Germany?

Gina: Yes, during the 2007/2008 1.FFC Frankfurt did the treble — we won the German title, the Pokal and the UEFA Women's Cup title (now the Women's Champions League). We had a team full of German National Team players, and we just clicked. I played center back as I worked my way into the team, so it was a good way to start and a good fit.

Gina at 1.FCC Frankfurt

BF: That's a pretty good way to begin your professional career? Looking at your CV, you're the American in Germany. among Christian Pulisic, Fabian Johnson, Timmy Chandler, etc who has won multiple titles?

Gina: (Laughs) I haven't really thought about it that much. I was lucky that I played with some great teams in Frankfurt and I've been here awhile. It was exciting, and really neat as an American to be in a different country and win. I was fortunate to play with another American on the team, Ali Kreiger. There have been women coming over to Germany and Europe to play, but generally they haven't stayed as long as I have.

BF: What is your training schedule like, now during the preseason, and then once the season begins in February?

Gina: Right now we have one day off a week, Monday. Tuesday and Thursday we have double sessions, and have single sessions the other days with a scrimmage on Sundays. Double sessions include work in the gym. During the season, we have only one day of double sessions, a total of seven training sessions a week, and on Sundays we play our league matches.

BF: What is it like to now be at Bayern Munich, one of the biggest clubs in the world?

Gina: It's very exciting, and not very many people get the opportunity to play at a club like this. The whole club is successful, the teams are close-knit, we attend the FCB basketball games, too. I'm proud to be part of the growth of the women's team at Bayern the last six years that I've been here, and the support we're given by the men. This summer we moved to the FCB campus, and to be able to now have the top training available — the gym, the medical department — which helps with recovery, the practice fields. The food is world-class, and it's a great feeling to see that the women also, along with the men, are given the opportunity to have such great facilities at their disposal along with the support of the men at Bayern.

BF: The Bayern Munich Frauen have been battling the last years with VfL Wolfsburg for supremacy in the Bundesliga Frauen. What is that rivalry like?

Gina: Wolfsburg are our biggest rivals right now, and we lost to them in October as we were unable to show how strong a club we are. Wolfsburg won the league last year, did the treble recently and are always contenders to win the Champions League, so playing against them is always a huge highlight for us. Right now they are the most successful team in women's football in Germany. But don't forget SC Freiburg — they are a young club on the rise, and we lost to them earlier this season, too. (At Winterpause, Wolfsburg lead the Bundesliga Frauen by three points over Bayern and five points over third-place SC Freiburg).

BF: How has your game grown since you were the new kid on the block and now one of the veterans on the team?

Gina: When I first came to Germany, it was a big transition — the ball moves a lot quicker, the players are faster, you have less time on the ball, less space. I took the challenge head on, though, Training every day basically for nine months a year, being around world-class players, an international elite and top coaches, I've seen my game grow every year. I started out at center back but moved to the outside as my experience grew and I have the chance to get forward more, like in college. As you get older, you lose some of your pace, but you can use your head a bit more, watch the game more and read situations on the field better. My fitness has improved, I'm more agile than when I arrived ten years ago.

BF: *The Bayern Frauen occasionally play some practice matches against mens' team, don't they?

Gina: Yes, we play against some of the boys' teams in Bavaria. Usually the cut-off age of boys we compete against is about 17, as by then the boys are bigger and faster and tackles can be dangerous for us. We can compete, but it's a challenge for us to use our technical skills to compete against the boys who are quicker and stronger, even at ages of 15 and 16.

BF: *Well you have the advantage of thinking skills, as we all know women can out-think men....

Gina: (Laughs)...Yes, that is very true.....

BF: *Do you interface much with the Bayern's men team's players?

Gina: I don't have any direct contact with the men's players, but I am a member of a Christian study group, and some of the guys from the senior squad attend, like Rafinha and David Alaba, along some of the players from the youth sides. When we won the championship, both the Frauen and the men's team got to attend a ceremony together at City Hall and then afterwards were at a big party together. I've done an interview with Robert Lewandowski that's on YouTube — that was my first interaction with him, and of course he's Polish and I have ancestors from Poland, so that was neat.

BF: *Switching gears a little, you are also interested in training techniques. One of the roles you've recently took on is as an Ambassador for the OHLEsport PRO what is that like?

Gina: I've known Justin Rose of JJR Consulting for several years and he asked if I would try the OHLEsport PRO, I incorporate this great training tool before practice and work on my touches indoors before we go out on the field. You can put it anywhere, it's light and I can warm up my feet. The other girls on the Frauen use it too. They were curious when I brought it to the locker room, and said "what is this?" I showed them how to use it correctly. It's a great tool to use, and it also warms me up mentally before practice with different moves and using both feet. Sometimes I get spontaneous and just use it to kick against the wall, and am looking forward to getting the app that goes with the OHLEsport PRO. And you can shift the height of the ball to get used to kicking and trapping the ball from different angles. Sometimes we practice with a couple of girls as I keep it in the Frauen locker room. A boy on a youth side has his own machine and uses it too.

BF: *Can you also tell us something about your training EBook, which I saw on your Facebook page?

Hi Joe,

Thanks for the note. I appreciate the update with the process. Please let me know if there is anything that I can do on my end to contribute to Gina's nomination to the Hall of Fame. It has been fantastic to see how much she has been able to accomplish on the field.

The family is doing well. Gabrielle will be going to high school next year! I am not sure that I am quite ready for that. Hope you and your family are doing great.

Take care,

Manny

Hi Manny,

I heard the good news about Gina. Quite a career! She is quite clearly on our Hall of Fame radar. The current state of that institution is that we are revising the election procedures which requires approval from the full electorate. Once we have revised the bylaws, we'll be back into the process of nominating and electing. Gina will be a very likely candidate.

Hope all is well with you and your family.

Best wishes,
Joe

Hi Joe,

I hope you are doing well. I wanted to reach out to let you know that Gina has been called up to the US women's National Team again for a friendly vs. Japan. I shared the information with Eric so that he is also aware. The main purpose of my email is to find out about the nomination process for the Hall of Fame. I believe that Gina would be a great candidate based on her career at Lehigh, but also what she has been able to accomplish in her professional playing career in Germany.

Thanks in advance for your guidance with this process.

Best,
Manny
